About me

Event Project Manager with experience in planning, managing, and coordinating events across the corporate, luxury, and live entertainment sectors. I oversee every stage of a project, from business development and client relationship management to logistical planning and budget management, through to on-site operational coordination, with a particular expertise in AVL technologies.
I combine a strategic overview with strong attention to detail, managing resources, timelines, and complex requirements through a structured, flexible, and solution-oriented approach.
I believe the success of an event stems from meticulous planning, effective coordination, and the ability to handle unexpected challenges with clarity and composure. Because a well-managed project is reflected in the final result, but above all, in everything that happens behind the scenes.
